

Short-Course Update

We are in the process of posting the first short-course module on the web. The module will be reviewed by faculty and made available ASAP. If you want to take the course for credit, please talk to your advisor about opening a 2-credit directed study section at your institution. Passwords to access the course materials will be emailed to you soon. The second module will be completed in person at the Graduate Student Retreat.

Interdisciplinary Team Products

We are scheduling time to work on your projects at the graduate student retreat. Individual groups should meet in advance to refine your ideas beforehand. Kristy has sent out an email that should help you with this process. You should also feel free to contact faculty for assistance at any point.

Undergraduate Summer Interns

Many REACCH graduate students will have summer interns working in their labs this summer. Graduate students are very important mentors, so please get to know these students. Please let Jodi know if you would like reading materials on mentoring undergraduates.

Dates to Remember and Announcements

Kathryn will be out of the office for the next 1-2 weeks so please contact Jodi (jmaynard@uidaho.edu) directly if you need anything.

Please send your field photos to Dianne!

REACCH T-shirts are here, please get your sizes to Dianne.

Responsible and Ethical Conduct of Research Training for USDA:

We have had a few questions about the ethical conduct training. This needs to be completed through your home institution. If you were on a NSF or NIH funded project, you probably already satisfied this requirement. See links below:

Graduate Student Retreat

The date is set-- July 19, 20 and 21 (1/2 day). The draft agenda is posted on Central Desktop (https://reacch.centraldesktop.com/6education/file/24350935/?pgref=&successmsg=Successfully%20Uploaded&new_file=true). There is some room on the schedule, so please send any suggestions for workshops, presentations, etc. Let us know what you need.
